INDICT PACKERS AND RAILROADS

Federal Grand Jury at Kansas City Brings Long List of Charges.

VIOLATION OF THE ELKINS LAW

Chicago Meat Men Are Alleged to Have Accepted Rebates From Traffic Agents on Products Shipped East via the Burlington.

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 15.—Eleven indictments were returned by the federal grand jury here Friday charging big Chicago packers, two railroad companies, and a number of freight and traffic agents with violation of the Elkins law, for conspiracy, and for giving and accepting rebates. The list: Nelson Morris, Edward Morris and Ira N. Morris, comprising the partnership of Nelson Morris & Co.; for accepting rebates.

Cudahy Packing Company; for accepting rebates.

Armour Packing Company; for accepting rebates.

Swift & Co.; for accepting rebates.

George L. Thomas, broker, of 320 Broadway, New York, a merchandise broker; for conspiracy to violate the interstate commerce act.

David H. Kresky, Kansas City, traffic agent for Kansas City and Oklahoma railroads; for conspiracy.

L. B. Taggart, New York, Crosby's chief clerk; for conspiracy.

George H. Crosby, Chicago, general traffic manager of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad; charged with making rebate contracts with G. L. Thomas of New York.

The Chicago & Alton Railroad company, and John N. Fathorn, and F. A. Wann, formerly vice president and general freight agent respectively of the railroad company; for granting rebates.

Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad company, for granting rebates to Howard Mills company at Wichita, Kan.

Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad company; for granting rebates.

Charges Against Packers.

The indictments against the packing companies charge that they entered into a contract with the Burlington railway company to accept rebates on shipments of their products from East St. Louis to New York for export.

The grand jury charges that the agreement thus entered into provided for a rate of 23 cents a hundred pounds. This was in July, 1905. The agreement was to continue in force until Jan. 1, 1906. The local rates applied between Kansas City and St. Louis.

In August, 1905, the joint rate on packing house products was raised by the Joint Traffic association to 35 cents between East St. Louis and New York. The Burlington had not expected this increase, but it is declared to have lived up to its 23 cent agreement with the packers in Kansas City, under which agreement it practically carried all the packing house products from this city except those of the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger Packing company. The trouble came when the rate was divided pro rata between the Burlington and its connections, whose officers the Burlington is said not to have consulted.

When the money was apportioned among the roads east of the Mississippi river it had to be done on a basis of 35 cents and the connecting lines refused to stand for the 23 cent rate.

When the distribution was made there was not enough to pay the high Valley railway, and its officers complained to the interstate commerce commission. The facts thus related are the same in all the bills found by the grand jury against the packers and the Burlington.

NEW FIELD FOR CONVICT LABOR

Prisoners to Make Twine Which Former Statesman Sells to Farmers.

La Porte, Ind., Dec. 15.—Leigh G. Furness, a former member of the state legislature, has been engaged by the state prison board to visit the farmers over the state and sell binder twine of convict manufacture while explaining the purpose of the prison in undertaking the business which is to give the prisoners employment on a product which does not conflict with any industry in the state. The prison factory is now being equipped and about 100 men will be employed in it.

Daring Feat to Rosent Jeer.

New York, Dec. 15.—John Peterson, a mason's helper, clutching projecting bricks, climbed the spire of St. Nicholas Roman Catholic church, Brooklyn, and stood erect on the gilded cross at the top, 250 feet above the ground. Peterson had been laughed at for being over-cautious.

Cook Guilty of Manslaughter.

Bluffton, Ind., Dec. 15.—In the Cook Andersson murder trial the jury returned a verdict of manslaughter against Otto Cook, the sixth and last defendant charged with the murder of Preston Sanderson, who was drowned in a shallow pond last year.

Pays $1,750,000 for Mine.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 15.—News has been received that Senator W. A. Clark of Montana has purchased the Union mine on the "mother lode" in Eldorado county. The purchase price, it is said, is $1,750,000.

GAVE A FORTUNE TO BE AVAILABLE NOW

The Late James Aran's Will Can Now Be Probated—Died in 1897—Left Many Thousands.

With the death of Mrs. James Aran of Delavan forty thousand dollars, bequeathed by her husband, the late James Aran, who died in 1897, becomes available for church purposes. Mr. Aran left a will, in which he disposed of forty thousand dollars of his estate to different churches, a library for Delavan and twenty thousand dollars to the Wisconsin Conference of the Methodist church. By the terms of his will the property was not to be divided until his wife's demise and as her funeral occurred in Delavan today this money will now be distributed. Each of the churches in Delavan receives one thousand dollars, the city of Delavan twenty thousand dollars for a public library, and the Wisconsin Conference twenty thousand, eight thousand of which is to be used for the establishment of a home for workmen preachers and the remainder for its being kept up.

LOCAL NEWS OF THE DAY.

Narrow Escape: George Huber of Clinton had a narrow escape from being hit by a flying switch while crossing the railroad tracks in that city. As it was, Huber just pulled his team out of danger's way in time to avoid being hit.

Has Had Plans Drawn: Contractor Roelling has drawn for Harry Brown plans for the erection of a $6,000 residence on a lot adjoining the present Brown homestead on Oakland avenue. The first story of the structure is to be built of cement blocks.

The Men's Meeting: The men's meetings at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon from 3 to 4 afford a pleasant and profitable hour for all men who attend. A. E. Matheson will be the principal speaker tomorrow. Special music will be supplied. The development of a larger and more aggressive life among men is the purpose of these meetings. The informal character is a special feature of interest. Any man who desires to assist can do so by his presence; bring a friend. The marked feature of this meeting is the practical development of men, enlarging their capacity for usefulness anywhere. Give us your presence and influence.

Marriage Licenses: Applications for marriage licenses have been filed by Albert Fuller and Isabelle Swan, both of Spring Valley; Albert S. Thompson of Beloit and Julia Storier of the town of Plymouth. In commenting upon the license granted W. J. Marsh and Martha Killefoth yesterday it was erroneously stated that the latter had secured the special permission of her father, Henry Killefoth, she being under seventeen years of age. The statement should have read "under eighteen."

To Build a Switch Track: A number of conveyances drawn up during the summer, but just filed with the register of deeds, show that the C. & N. W. Ry. Co. for various considerations has obtained a strip of land 60 feet wide from Lawrence J. Cronin across part of the w 1/2 of the NW quarter of Sect. 6 in town 2 N. of Range 13; and from Nancy R. and M. G. Jeffris a similar strip across lot 3 in the Willow Grange addition; and from the St. Paul road across the e 1/2 of the NW 1/4 of Sect. 6, town 2, north, Range 13, east. It is understood that this land in the Spring Brook locality has been obtained for a switch track that is to be constructed.

To Attend Initiation: Tonight the three college fraternity chapters at Beloit will initiate their candidates and a number of Janesville members expect to attend the ceremonies.

Fourth Avenue Bridge Unsafe: This morning one of the horses of a team crossing the Fourth avenue bridge stepped on the edge of a plank that broke through, leaving a large gaping hole. The structure is badly in need of repairs.

Still Alarm This Morning: A still alarm came in from the Janesville Machine Co.'s plant at 7:20 this morning. There was no fire. The intense heat under one of the large welding machines melted the automatic sprinkler head in that locality.

Drunks in Court: For drunkenness and disorderly conduct Frank Walters and Fred Meisner each paid fines of $1 and costs in municipal court this morning. David Cunningham was given five days in jail.

J. R. Adams Here: J. R. Adams of Plano, Ill., editor of "The Mysic Worker" and pleasantly remembered by many friends who made his acquaintance during the national convention of the order in Janesville a year ago, arrived in the city yesterday and addressed Janesville Lodge No. 190 last evening. He is making a tour of Wisconsin as representative of Supreme Master W. A. Cunningham.

SMOOT TO BE OUSTED.

Mormon Senator to Be Unseated by Election Committee.

Washington, Dec. 15.—Plans are forming in the Senate that will bring an end to the Senator Smoot case and result in the ousting of the Senator from Utah. The present plan is to put Senator Dooliver of Iowa on the committee of privileges and elections who will vote with Senator Burroughs, the chairman of the committee, against Smoot. These two Republican members with five Democrats, who are all against the Utah Senator, will make a majority. Senator Smoot has made a good impression by his actions on the floor of the Senate during the trying times when his case was under consideration. It is believed, however, that a majority report from the committee favorable will be presented that is expected to prove detrimental to Smoot's chances of remaining in the Senate. The activity of the Woman's Christian Temperance association and other organizations who are insisting on Smoot's removal will be again in evidence at this session of Congress.

SENATE IS REBUKED.

House Insists on Right to Originate Revenue Legislation.

Washington, Dec. 15.—The house Friday, by unanimous vote, administered a rebuke to the senate, practically informing the latter body that it had exceeded its authority and encroached on the rights of the house. The action taken was to send back the bill passed by the senate to remove certain disabilities against the Panama canal bonds, with a message stating that the house refused to consider it. The bill is a new provision for the first section of the measure already passed by the house appropriating $11,000,000 for work on the canal, and was framed by the senate in order that it might go to the finance committee. As the constitution declares that all revenue legislation must originate in the house, the latter body holds that if it retains prerogative it cannot consider a senate bill dealing with revenue.

Omnibus Building Bill.

Washington, Dec. 15.—The house committee on public buildings and grounds has decided to press an omnibus building bill at the present session.

Will Retain Consul Post.

Washington, Dec. 15.—President Roosevelt has nominated William Harrison Bradley of Chicago to succeed himself as consul general at Manchester, England.

Holiday Recess.

Washington, Dec. 15.—Chairman Payne of the ways and means committee presented in the house a joint resolution providing for the holiday recess. It proposes adjournment of both houses from Dec. 21 to Jan. 4.

Where Fickle Heart Is Best.

OFFER OPENING FOR MINING ENGINEERS

Wisconsin Iron and Lead Mines Are Great Fields—Courses of Study Are Essential.

The unprecedented expansion of the mining industry in recent years, the tendency toward concentration of control, and the accompanying changes in methods of mining, extraction and transportation of the ores have required a differentiation and specialization of the technical help necessary for such operations. The versatile mining engineer who, when called upon, will open up a mine, install machinery, run a concentrating plant or smelter, build a railway, or make a geological report, with excursions into their technical branches, is as ubiquitous as ever, but his activities are becoming less diversified, and a part of his work is passing into the hands of specialists in one or more of these several lines of work, such as the civil engineer, the mechanical engineer, the metallurgist and the economic geologist. These specialists may or may not know some of the other branches necessary to mining. It is highly desirable that they do know them. But their essential qualification must be thorough training in the fundamentals of the particular lines of the application of these principles to mining can, if necessary, be largely acquired in the local field of work. On the other hand the man who has acquired a knowledge of the applications of his specialty of mining without a thorough grounding in the principles can scarcely supply the deficiency in later years and is permanently handicapped in the development of new methods to meet the constantly changing conditions. Managers of some of the largest mining enterprises are beginning to insist on thorough fundamental training in their technical help even to the point of taking men whose training in applied mining and allied subjects has been trivial. They reason that the experience will soon give them enough of the applied branches to meet their immediate needs, while experience will not give them the fundamentals.

The tendency toward specialization thus opens a field to graduates of universities or colleges in which this fundamental training in engineering, geology or chemistry is emphasized rather than their applications to mining. The mining school has excellent courses in the fundamentals, but the necessity of crowding in so much applied work in the four years makes it necessary to encroach upon these subjects to an extent not necessary in a university or college. On the other hand, some of the universities or colleges may give instruction in applied mining subjects equal to that of the mining schools, but as a whole the mining school is better adapted to give this work. It would follow from these remarks that in the training of men for the mining industry in its newer phases both the mining school and the university may play an important part—the university in the basal training of engineering, geology or chemistry, the mining school in the applications of these subjects to mining. There seems to be little need of duplication of their work. It would seem especially undesirable for the university to attempt to introduce courses in applied mining and metallurgy into a four years' course at the expense of the subjects of the present courses. If introduced, as they doubtless will be to a small extent, they should be a part of a five or six years' course. Instead of competing at a disadvantage, perhaps temporary, in the mining school's field, the university has its own special opportunity.

ONE EXPERIENCE IS ENOUGH FOR CONRY

Clinton Man Travels to Sharon Hanging Outside of a Vestibule Door.

Emmett Conry of Clinton had a most thrilling experience recently and one which he will never care to repeat. Mr. Conry had planned to go to Sharon on the 7:12 passenger. He was late in getting aboard and the train was pulling out when he grasped the rods and swung onto the lower step of the platform, supposing the brakeman would come and open the vestibule door. Those who watched the train go out and saw Conry still hanging to the step when it disappeared concluded that he would be knocked off and killed at the iron bridge between Clinton and Sharon. Accordingly Agent Bradley and others set out on a hand-car to discover what had become of Conry. A careful search was made at the bridge, but finding no trace of Conry, two of the party continued the journey to Sharon, where they found that he had reached his destination in safety. Conry says nothing would induce him to again take such a ride.

CITY MARSHAL ORDERED THE MOVING OF BUILDING STOPPED

On Complaint Of M. W. Loudon—
Fifield Bros. Had Assurance That Council Would Approve.

When the work of moving of the frame building north of the J. S. Doran blacksmith shop on North Jackson street next to Fifield Bros. lumber yard was started this morning, M. W. Loudon who owns some houses in the vicinity of the lumber yard complained to Mayor Hutchinson and the latter called upon City Marshal Appleby to order the workmen to desist, which he did. Fifield Bros. applied for permission to move this building at the last meeting of the council. The fire and water committee to whom the matter was referred asked for time to investigate. The committee appears to have been satisfied that no danger would be incurred and after ascertaining that a majority of the aldermen would vote in favor of the granting the request at the next session, the lumber firm, being in somewhat of a hurry to get the structure placed in the center of the yard and ready for use, started a crew of men at work.

MALCOLM JEFFRIS

In announcing the candidacy of Malcolm G. Jeffris for the nomination for congress of the first congressional district, the Gazette takes it upon itself to congratulate the voters of the district in being allowed to present his name for their consideration. Mr. Jeffris is a republican whose staunchness has never been doubted. Twelve years ago, when the present congressman, H. A. Cooper of Racine, was nominated, it was tacitly understood that after a few terms Mr. Cooper was to retire and a Rock county man chosen to fill his place. Mr. Jeffris, in announcing his candidacy, only follows out the agreement made long ago. If selected as the republican standard-bearer, Mr. Jeffris will make a sterling congressman, whose interests will be those of his constituents. The Gazette heartily endorses his candidacy and urges his nomination.

CLEARS PFISTER.

The trial of Charles Pfister of Milwaukee, charged with the theft of some fourteen thousand dollars from the Milwaukee Rendering company, has been ended. Mr. Pfister is completely exonerated as everyone thought he would be. The only sad feature about the whole affair is that a gang of political tricksters can so handle and corrupt a grand jury of reputable citizens that an indictment can be brought against such a man as Pfister. Never for a minute was it believed throughout the state that Mr. Pfister was guilty. His vindication does not come as a surprise but as a justification of the laws which govern the state. It is a rebuke to the men who tried to make a business man suffer because he was their political opponent.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

The following timely article, is from the pen of Elbert Hubbard, founder of the "Roxcrofts," and editor of the little magazine called the "Philistine." It contains so much of hard common sense, and is so intensely practical that it will be read with interest by Gazette readers. The fact is generally recognized by people who think that the race is not to the swift and the ability to "train on" to the end of the journey was never more important. This fact is strongly brought out by Mr. Hubbard in the article which follows.

Little animal's actions were exactly parallel to those of the human baby, even to crying at night until taken in arms, fondled and crooned to. It would also cry when it heard a footstep or people moving around, but if it thought it was absolutely alone it would remain quiet, thus proving that a good deal of its crying was done for the gallery. The first distinguishing characteristic of the human baby is its ability to smile, and this the orang-outang never learns to do. The smile means fluidity of spirit—responsiveness, sympathy. A little further along in his book, Wallace calls attention to the fact that up to a certain age, children of savage or barbaric parents are quite as intelligent and quite as well behaved as the children of highly civilized parents. In the kindergarten, slum children, papooses and pickaninies are exactly on a par with the children of the lawyers, doctors and preachers. In responsiveness, alertness, eagerness and ability to comprehend and perform, there is no distinction. Race, color, or previous condition of servitude have no bearing in the kindergarten. All of which was explained at length by that most noble and excellent woman and kindergarten teacher, the late Mrs. Luerella Treat. Environment will change a child, but so far as educators can follow, children of negroes, Indians, Malays, and illiterate whites, living under like conditions, will keep pace fully with the children of the most advanced and enlightened parents. The work at Carlisle seems to fully bear out this proposition. The evolution of the individual mirrors the evolution of the race; and up to a certain stage all children are very much alike, expressing in their lives the purely elemental or primitive traits. But when adolescence arrives you find individuality coming to the fore, preferences expressed, ambitions defined, and divergence rapidly follows—read Stanley Hall's fine book on "Adolescence." This start in life is like a horse-race where opportunity is equal. The racers are all bunched at the first turn, but from there they begin to scatter. At the second turn two stop and two are seen forging ahead. There is still a goodly bunch to be seen from the grand-stand, and individuals cannot be picked out. At the third turn the bunch has elongated itself to a single file, and each individual can be seen. Several more have "done quit." And as the leaders turn into the home-stretch you see only two horses, out of the dozen that started. These two come on with a steady and sustained patter of hoofs—one just a length behind the other. They keep their places until within a hundred yards of the wire, when the horse that is behind seems to let out an extra line, and he forges ahead and comes in under the wire an easy winner by two lengths. With race-horses the supreme test is the ability to stay in, and give out the extra burst of power when it is demanded. The difference in men is the ability to train on.

All teachers are familiar with the boy who balks at long division. We all know the college graduate who secures his bachelor's degree, and never looks in a book nor solves a problem afterward—just escaping the flag. We also know the prize scholar, who wins the college race, but is so winded by the process that he never trains on. The supreme test is to stay in the race, and then be in the condition to train on for the next contest. The barbaric or savage type, of any color, falls a victim of arrested development and dies, intellectually, at the first of the second turn. He is the one who early in life delegates his doubts and fears to a syndicate, and does his thinking thereafter by proxy. The great man is the one who trains on. Dr. Charles Wesley Emerson beholds four general divisions in each human life. In childhood all are bunched—practically we are all alike until adolescence. Then comes preference, choice—and we split up into divisions, sects, classes or denominations. This goes with that fine flaming up of physical attraction, which continues until thirty, and during which period, for most people, arrested development awaits. Dr. Bucke in his book, "Cosmic Consciousness," places the age when spiritual enlightenment comes, if it comes at all, at thirty-three. This is the third turn on life's race-track, which by the way isn't kite-shaped. High intellect and spiritual power, says Dr. Emerson, must not be expected until sex is, in degree, in obedience and the rose-blush of body takes on the tinge of autumn. Wrinkles and gray hair are nature's gentle touch upon the arm and a hint that mortality is a divine order—nothing is permanent but change—and if anything endures it is spirit and intellect. And then for the first time we think—before this we did nothing but feel. The home-stretch comes at fifty, and only the wise eschew the chromatic scale, in hair dye, eliminate the youths' wig, abjure frills and false fronts, accepting the inevitable. Old age is beautiful, when it is simply itself—it only becomes "hideous" when it puts forth efforts to be thought young, just as youth is repulsive when it tries to pass itself off for maturity. Only by accepting age do we overcome it. When we struggle against it, we are playing tragedy. But by accepting life as it is, we take the bitterness out of it, and this play of life then ends beautifully, as every play should. Garcia at one hundred, Caroline Herschel at ninety-nine, Titian at ninety-nine, Michael Angelo at eighty-nine, Haydn at ninety-five, Humboldt at ninety-two, each and all her "charms" have begun to fade; and the man who forges ahead after he has acquired a bald spot, are the only ones who will be "saved," none other is worth while. All the rest go into the hell-box.

The man with the scholar's mind, who is a-hungered for truth, who wants the facts, who works with never a thought of "retiring," he, and he alone can be called the "superior man."

And just as long as ninety-nine out of all starlings balk or hit the turf at the first rise, we cannot call the human race enlightened. Superiority is shown in training on, and in nothing else. I prophesy a time when the proportions will be reversed, and the intellectual gutter will be the exception. The trouble so far has been that church, state and society have placed a penalty upon training on, and given the prize to the intellectual gutter. For the first time in the history of mankind there is now a chance for a man to be honest and still get a living. Not much of a chance—but it is possible! Yesterday, it wasn't! I have great hope for the human race. It has begun to train on. I want to live a hundred years, not to behold the wondrous advances of science, but to look back and realize how big a fool I was today.

I want to live so to train on, and when I cease to train on I hope I shall cease to live.

MINERS SETTLE ON DEMANDS

Tridistrict Convention at Shamokin, Pa., Fixes Terms of Agreement.
Shamokin, Pa., Dec. 16.—Recognition of the union and the eight-hour day are said to be the principal demands of the anthracite miners which were adopted at the tridistrict convention of the United Mine Workers here. Report of the wage scale committee formulating the demands, together with the recommendation that a committee confer with the operators, was adopted at an executive session, and the exact terms of the demands were not made public. A call has been issued for a meeting of the anthracite board of conciliation in Philadelphia, Dec. 22.

TEN-YEAR TERM FOR A DUELIST

Iowa Supreme Court Decides Man Must Go to Prison.
Des Moines, Iowa, Dec. 16.—Duels are forbidden in Iowa, declared the Supreme court in affirming the conviction of Fenton Whitnah of Page county, for killing Charles Middaugh. The two men quarreled while drunk and agreed to fight it out with their fists. Middaugh was killed by a blow on the jugular vein. Whitnah must serve ten years in prison.

Stogies Advance in Price.
Wheeling, W. Va., Dec. 16.—All the stogie manufacturers in the Wheeling district, with one exception, have made an average advance in the price of stogies of 50 cents per 1,000, in some cases the advance is as much as $1 a thousand, and is due to the increased cost of seed tobacco.

Pope Promises Cardinal.
London, Dec. 16.—A dispatch from Rome says that after the ceremony of installing cardinals at the public consistory, the pope, turning to Dr. Henry Joseph Richter, bishop of Grand Rapids, Mich., said: "America will have her turn."

Nation Gets "Old Flag House."
Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 16.—The little two-story brick structure at 239 Arch street, known as the "Old Flag house," where Betsy Ross designed the American flag, has been purchased for the government.

Sing Sing.
The name of Sing Sing, a town in the state of New York, is of Indian origin and means "stone upon stone." Another statement is that the name is a corruption of the Indian word "ossining," a stony place.

Propose to Take Over Water System

Three-Fourths of Million.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Beloit, Dec. 16.—Through the firm of Brink and Davis of Cincinnati, O., Beloit is to have a street railway. An electric lighting franchise, under which the system is to be built and operated, will be requested from the city council Monday evening, and probably granted. The Ohio financiers do not expect that the railway will be a paying proposition, but their plan is to operate it for the benefit of the citizens and reap their gain from the electric lighting contract and other interest which they hope to procure in the city. The articles of incorporation have been drawn up and are to be filed today. The railway and electric lighting plant are only parts of the Cincinnati men's project, which involves three-fourths of a million dollars. Brink and Davis plan if possible to take over the city water works and the gas company, thus owning and operating practically all the public utilities in the city.

Thirty near neighbors and friends of Mrs. Lola MacGregor surprised her at her home Thursday evening, took possession of the house and turned the evening into one of festivity. The company brought with them well-filled baskets and from these a bounteous and delicious repast was spread. Following the supper cards and dancing were indulged and the evening passed most rapidly and merrily. The music for the terpsichorean pleasures was furnished by John Smith, violin, and Mrs. A. J. S. Rooney, piano. Upon departing at a late hour all expressed their sympathy for Mrs. MacGregor in her recent trouble and wished her many years of happiness in companionship with her four daughters. As a still further demonstration of the regard and esteem in which the guests hold Mrs. MacGregor, many handsome gifts were presented.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Shoemaker, four miles north of the city, Miss Coraevie Shoemaker will entertain Monday evening in honor of Miss Myrtle Strang, who is to be married to William J. Nicholas of Appleton. The wedding is to occur next Wednesday afternoon at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Lucy A. Strang, at 307 Madison street. Rev. Nicholas, the father of the groom, is to pronounce the ceremony. Miss Strang is a graduate of the Janesville high school and has many friends in the city who will extend congratulations. Mr. Nicholas is a member of the teaching corps in the public schools of Appleton, being superintendent on the West Side and teacher in manual training.

Some confusion has arisen regarding the forthcoming dances to be given by the Inning Club. — FORTY YEARS AGO —

Janesville Daily Gazette, Saturday, December 16, 1905.—Major F. E. Stevens has our thanks for late New Orleans papers.

Why Not?—We had expected to hear of the arrest of a considerable number of those who did a promiscuous business of stealing on the night of the fire; but there has been no arrest, as we know of—Wherefore? A person who would steal under such circumstances would sell his grandmother for a drink of mean whiskey.

Hyzer's Patent Stove.—Mr. J. W. Storey, who has just returned from Troy, New York, informs us that Hyzer's patent stove and furnace is likely to meet with excellent favor in that great stove making city. They say it is something they have been seeking after—an arrangement that will economize all the heat that is possible to get out of fuel. One of the heaviest firms in Troy proposes to take hold of the patent.

Circuit Court, Saturday, Dec. 16.—In the case of Jennie M. Van Brunt vs. Daniel Gower, the jury yesterday found a verdict for the plaintiff for $197.63. This morning George Stickney and John McCabe were arraigned for larceny, and the latter for another indictment on burglary. The case of Amelia Johnson vs. Henry Search, was dismissed on the motion of the plaintiff's counsel. The case of Raymond Hitchcock vs. S. H. Culver, has been on trial most all day, and promises to take up most of the time all day Monday.

A company has been organized in San Francisco with a capital of thirty million dollars to construct a railroad of seven hundred and twenty miles in length from that city to the California state line, there to connect with the completed road to the Mississippi river.

The Eight-Hour League.—At a meeting of the workmen held in this city Friday evening, it was resolved to form a league, subordinate to the Grand League of the state, having for its object the fixing of eight hours as a legal day's work, and the advancement of the interests of the workmen generally. Mr. G. F. Lane was elected President; C. B. Bennett, Vice-President; R. Brand, Recording Secretary; W. L. Smith, Corresponding Secretary; C. H. Vorhees, Financial Secretary, and J. M. Burgess, Treasurer. A committee of three were appointed to procure a room for the accommodation of the league, after which the meeting adjourned to meet at the call of the committee.

JANESVILLE MARKETS

Quotations on Grain and Produce for The Gazette.

REPORTED BY F. H. GREEN & SON, DEALERS IN WHEAT, GRAIN, FLOUR AND FEED.

Dec. 15th, 1905.
Flour—1st Patent 1 1/2 to 1 3/4; 2nd Patent 1 1/4 to 1 1/2; 3rd Patent 1 1/4 to 1 1/2; 4th Patent 1 1/4 to 1 1/2; 5th Patent 1 1/4 to 1 1/2; 6th Patent 1 1/4 to 1 1/2; 7th Patent 1 1/4 to 1 1/2; 8th Patent 1 1/4 to 1 1/2; 9th Patent 1 1/4 to 1 1/2; 10th Patent 1 1/4 to 1 1/2.
Wheat—Chicago Cash, No. 1 and 2 Northwest 83¢.
New Ear Corn—14.00 to 15.00 per ton.
Rye—New 65¢ per bu.
Barley—New, 35¢ to 40¢.
Oats—New, 25¢ to 30¢.
Timothy Seed—Recalls at $1.35 to $1.50 per bu.
Buy at 90 to $1.25 bu.
Feed—Pure corn and oats, $15.00 per ton.
Bran—$17.00 to $18.00 sacked per ton.
Standard Middlings $18.00 sacked.
Oat Meal—$1.15 to $2.00 per cwt.
Corn Meal—$17.00 to $18.00 per ton.
Hay—For ton load, $4.00 to $5.00.
Butter—Dairy, 21¢ to 22¢.
Creamery 23¢.
Potatoes—60¢ to 65¢.
Eggs—Strictly fresh, 23¢ to 25¢.
Onions 60¢ to 70¢ bu.
Poultry, live chickens, 8 to 8 cents; old fowls 6 to 7¢.
Ducks, dressed—10¢ to 12¢.
Turkeys, dressed—10¢ to 12¢.
Turkeys, live—12 to 13 c.
Veal calves, 5 to 5 1/2¢.

The above quotations on flour is based on present cash price of wheat and wholesale quotations. There is practically no local price on flour, each dealer making his own retail price.

During the last week the local market price for oats has advanced about 2¢ per bushel. Although neither the Milwaukee nor Chicago market will warrant it, 30¢ is about the leading price for best grades, although a few farmers have realized 2¢ more by peddling them around town in small quantities.

The wholesale price of bran in bulk has advanced $1 per ton during the last week at Minneapolis and Chicago.

The demand for live and dressed poultry is promptly met at above quotations. Dealers in turkeys, however, do not feel disposed to load up very heavy for Christmas trade, realizing from the Thanksgiving trade that consumers are inclined to patronize the beef trust rather than the turkey trust for their Christmas dinners—at the present high prices for turkeys.

A NEW TRAIN TO LOS ANGELES.

The North-Western Line and The Union Pacific Put On A Fast Through Train via Salt Lake, Beginning December 17th.

A solid through train from Chicago to Los Angeles will be placed in service over the Chicago, Union Pacific & North-Western Line and the newly opened Salt Lake Route (S. P., L. A. & S. L. R. R.) leaving the Wells St. Station, Chicago, every day in the year, at 10:05 p. m., and arrive at Los Angeles at 4:45 the third day. The train will be electric lighted throughout. The equipment is new from the Pullman shops, and includes Pullman standard drawing room, sleeping cars, one Pullman tourist sleeping car, and a composite observation car, with buffet smoking room and Booklovers Library, through to Los Angeles without change. All meals in dining car, a la carte service.

This train is an especially desirable one for tourist travel carrying both tourist sleeping cars and standard drawing room Pullman of the latest designs.

The route of the new train is over the only double track railway between Chicago and the Missouri River, through Council Bluffs, Omaha and Cheyenne to Ogden and Salt Lake City, and directly across the Southwestern part of Utah and Southern Nevada, into the citrus fruit region of California, passing through San Bernardino, Riverside and Pomona to Los Angeles. This is a new and desirable routing, and secures to the traveler the advantages of the best train can be produced in railway travel over the pioneer line from Chicago and the enjoyment of new scenes and excellent train service over the new Salt Lake Road.

a gift that will ever be appreciated and one which increases in the using. In this practical age why not let our giving be of a practical nature.

YOUNG MAN! YOUNG WOMAN!

You have to make your own way in the world. Why not make an investment for the Christmas of 1905 that will count for your future?

A Business Education will do more for a young man or woman in aiding them to help themselves, with the least expenditure of time and money, than any other undertaking.

We have students earning $70.00 per month who graduated from us scarcely 8 months ago. They spent $50.00 for a scholarship and now it returns to them $70.00 each month, and will do more than that as they obtain the experience. Was it a good investment for them?

The Holladay Case

A Mystery Of Two Continents

By BURTON E. STEVENSON
Copyright, 1903, by Henry Holt and Company

CHAPTER XVII.

WE were up at an hour which astonished the little fat keeper of the inn and inquired the location of the office of the registrar of births. It was two steps away in the Rue Alphonse Karr, but would not be open for three hours at least. Would messieurs have their coffee now? No, messieurs would not have their coffee until they returned. Where would they find the residence of the registrar of births—his residence? That was another matter. His residence was some little distance away, near the casino, at the right. We should ask for Maitre Fingret. Any one could tell us. When should messieurs be expected to return? It was impossible to say.

We set off along the street, leaving the innkeeper staring after us.

"Maitre Fingret?" we inquired of the first passerby, and he pointed us to a little house half hidden in vines.

A knock brought the notary himself to the door, a little dried up man, with keen face and eyes incredibly bright. My companion explained our errand in laborious French, supplemented by much gesticulation—it is wonderful how the hands can help one to talk—and after a time the little Frenchman caught his meaning and hustled away to get his hat and coat, scenting a fat fee. Our first step was to be an easy one, thanks to the severity and thoroughness of French administration, but I admit that I saw not what we should do further, once we had verified the date of Miss Holladay's birth.

The notary unlocked the door, showed us into his office and set our chairs for us; then he got down his register of births for 1876. It was not a large book, for the births at Eretat are not overwhelming in number.

"The name, I think you said, was Holladay?" he asked.

"Hiram W. Holladay," nodded Mr. Royce.

"And the date June 10?"

"Yes; June 10."

The little man ran his finger rapidly down the page, then went back again and read the entries one by one more slowly, with a pucker of perplexity about his lips. He turned the leaf, began farther back and read through the list again, while we sat watching him. At last he shut the book.

"Messieurs," he said quietly, "no such birth is recorded here. I have examined the record for the months of May, June and July."

"But it must be there!" protested Mr. Royce.

"Nevertheless it is not here."

"Could the child have been born here and no record made of it?"

"Impossible, monsieur."

"For a large fee, perhaps," suggested my companion.

"In Paris that may sometimes be possible. But in a small place like this I should have heard of it."

"You have been here for that length of time, then?"

"Oh, yes, monsieur," smiled the little man. "For a much longer time than that."

Mr. Royce leaned forward toward him. He was getting back all his old power as a cross examiner.

"M. Fingret," he began impressively, "I am quite certain that Hiram W. Holladay and his wife were here during the months of May, June and July, 1876, and that while they were here a daughter was born to them. Think again. Have you no recollection of them or of the event?"

The little notary sat for some moments with knitted brows. At last he shook his head.

"That would be the height of the season, you see, monsieur," he said apologetically. "There are a great many people here at that time, and I cannot know all of them. Nevertheless it seemed to me for a moment that there was about the name a certain familiarity—as of an old time, you know, forgotten for years. Yet it must have been my fancy merely, for I have no recollection of the event you mention."

There was one other chance, and I gave Mr. Royce the cue.

"M. Fingret," he asked, "are you acquainted with a man of the name of Pierre Bethune?"

And again the notary shook his head. "Or Jasper Martigny?"

"I never before heard either name."

We sat silent a moment, in despair. Was our trip to Eretat to be of no avail? Where was my premonition now? If we had lost the trail thus early in the chase, what hope was there that we should ever run down the quarry? And how explain the fact that no record had been made of Frances Holladay's birth? Why should her parents have wished to conceal it?

An hour had passed, the shops were opening and a bustle of life reached us through the open door.

"The first train for three days is about to arrive," said the little notary. Again we fell silent. Mr. Royce got out his purse and paid the fee. We had come to an impasse—a closed way. We could go no farther. I could see that the notary was a-hungry for his roll and coffee. With a sigh, I arose to go. The notary stepped to the door and looked up the street.

"Ah," he said, "the train has arrived, but it seems there were not many passengers. Here is one, though, who has finished a long journey."

He nodded to some one who approached slowly. It seemed, he was before the door. He passed on. It was Martigny!

"That is the man!" I cried to Mr. Royce. "That is Martigny! Ask who he really is."

He understood on the instant and caught the notary's arm.

"M. Fingret, who is that man?"

The notary glanced at him, surprised by his vehemence.

"That," he said, "is Victor Fajolle. He is just home from America."

"And he lives here?"

"Oh, surely—on the cliffs just above the town, the first house. You cannot miss it, buried in a grove of trees. He married the daughter of Mme. Alix some years ago. He was from Paris."

"And his wife is living?"

"Oh, surely she is living. She herself returned from America but three weeks ago, together with her mother and sister. The sister, they say, is well—"

"—and he finished with a significant gesture toward his head.

I saw my companion's face turn white. I steadied myself with an effort.

"And they are at home now?"

"I believe so," said the notary, erying him with more and more astonishment. "They have been keeping close at home since their return. They will permit no one to see the invalid."

"Come, we must go!" I cried. "He must not get there before us!"

But a sudden light gleamed in the notary's eyes.

"Wait, messieurs," he cried. "A moment, but a moment. Ah, I remember it now. It was the link which was wanting and you have supplied it—Holladay, a millionaire of America, his wife, Mme. Alix. She did not live in the villa then, messieurs. Oh, no. She was very poor, a nurse; anything to make a little money. Her husband, who was a fisherman, was drowned and left her to take care of the children as best she could."

He had got down another book and was running his fingers rapidly down the page, his finger all a-tremble with excitement. Suddenly he stopped with a little cry of triumph.

"Here it is, messieurs! See!"

Under the date of June 10, 1876, was an entry of which this is the English:

Holladay, Hiram W., and Elizabeth, his wife, of the city of New York, United States of America; from Celeste Alix, widow of Auguste Alix, her daughter Celeste, aged five months. All claim surrendered in consideration of the payment of 25,000 francs.

Mr. Royce caught up the book and glanced at the back. It was the "Record of Adoptions."

"But it must be there!" protested Mr. Royce.

"Nevertheless it is not here."

"Could the child have been born here and no record made of it?"

"Impossible, monsieur."

"For a large fee, perhaps," suggested my companion.

"In Paris that may sometimes be possible. But in a small place like this I should have heard of it."

"You have been here for that length of time, then?"

"Oh, yes, monsieur," smiled the little man. "For a much longer time than that."

Mr. Royce leaned forward toward him. He was getting back all his old power as a cross examiner.

"M. Fingret," he began impressively, "I am quite certain that Hiram W. Holladay and his wife were here during the months of May, June and July, 1876, and that while they were here a daughter was born to them. Think again. Have you no recollection of them or of the event?"

The little notary sat for some moments with knitted brows. At last he shook his head.

"That would be the height of the season, you see, monsieur," he said apologetically. "There are a great many people here at that time, and I cannot know all of them. Nevertheless it seemed to me for a moment that there was about the name a certain familiarity—as of an old time, you know, forgotten for years. Yet it must have been my fancy merely, for I have no recollection of the event you mention."

PLINY NORCROSS HAS MADE HIS DECISION

Stands for a Two Cent Fare on the Railroads—So States in the Legislature.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 16.—(Special.)—Pliny Norcross, the stalwart leader in the assembly, is in favor of a two-cent passenger rate on the railroads. He stated Thursday that he intended to write to the president and other officers of the railroads doing business in Wisconsin on his stationery as a member of the assembly that they ought in right to grant this concession to the people.

"Perhaps 'concession' is not the right word exactly," he said, "but the roads ought to voluntarily make an 'offer' to the people of the state of a reduced passenger rate. They have been making increased revenues on account of the laws which the state has passed in the last few years. The anti-pass law alone has meant that probably $50,000 or $75,000 a year of the state's money contributed by the taxpayers, has been paid to them for service for which they received nothing before. Other laws have also contributed to their coffers. Now, in simple justice the railroads ought to give back something to the people. And they ought to do it freely and willingly, without being compelled to do it. They grant two-cent rates to those persons who buy a thousand or two thousand mile ticket. If they can afford to do that, they can afford to grant a two-cent fare for those who ride less. I do not intend to introduce any bill to compel the roads to grant a reduced fare, but in my opinion they ought to do that of their own free will, and I will tell them so. I believe, also, that their revenues would be increased by so doing."

At the beginning of the session it was said by administration leaders that a two-cent passenger rate bill would be introduced at this session, but nothing of that sort has materialized yet. It is said that the rate commission, who has authority to order a two-cent rate, is considering such a proposition at this time.

Excursion Rates for the Holidays— Via the North-Western Line. Excursion tickets will be sold at reduced rates December 22, 23, 24, 25, 30, 31.

How Is Your Heart?

Is your pulse weak, too slow, too fast, or does it skip a beat? Do you have shortness of breath, weak or hungry spells, fainting, smothering or choking spells, palpitation, fluttering, pains around the heart, in side and shoulder, or hurt when lying on left side?

If you have any of these symptoms your heart is weak or diseased, and cannot get better without assistance.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure strengthens weak hearts, and rarely ever fails to cure heart disease. Try it, and see how quickly you will find relief.

"About January 1st, 1902, I took down with weakness and drowsy, and gradually grew worse. I was told by my family physician that my case was hopeless. My neighbors and family had given me up to die. My limbs and body were swollen to one third larger than normal size, and water had collected around my heart. For at least three months I had to sit propped up in bed to keep from smothering. I sent for five bottles of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, and by the time I had taken them all I was entirely cured. I feel better than I have for twenty years, and I am able to do any kind of work on my part. My family physician told me that if it hadn't been for Dr. Miles' Heart Cure I would now be in my grave."—T. C. LUMORE, Ky.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails he will return your money. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

CAPTURE INSANE MAN ON FARM AT CLINTON

William Nemier, Who Lives North of Madison, Found in Demented Condition.

A man showing evidence of mental aberration was discovered recently wandering about the neighborhood two miles southeast of Clinton. He was captured on Mike Michelson's place and brought to Marshal Baldwin. He was well dressed, had about $60 in his pocket and stated that his name was William Nemier and that his home was north of Madison. Baldwin took the man to Janesville on the 11:15 train and gave him into the custody of the sheriff of Dane county, with whom he had communicated and who agreed to meet him there. The man, it seems, had not been confined but was allowed to do some business. He had sold a load of hogs the day he disappeared and thought it a good opportunity to take a trip.

New and Pleasant Perfume.

If you want something particularly pleasant take some sea salt and put it in a wide mouthed bottle and pour in a few drops of violet perfume. Close the bottle tight, let it stand a while, then open, and you get the curious smell of the salt sea, with a slight tinge of violet, which is always found in salt air.
